

Bebo to go Pardesi?

You have seen Jennifer Lopez and Victoria Beckham do this, and now it's sensuous diva – Kareena Kapoor's turn to design her own line of clothings for a retail brand that she has been endorsing.

Obviously her fans have not liked a bit of it, because the sexy lady has decided to focus more on her global ventures in 2011 than do films! "I need to focus on the business plans that I have which includes launching my international fashion line in a big way. Again, I love travelling and that will keep on happening."

Yea that does sound great Bebo, but what about your fans?

Page 3

